

The Passing of Centuries

“The Passing of Centuries” is a photographic project that began its exploration in the summer of 2021, nestled within the breathtaking landscapes of the “Val de Bagnes” valley in the Swiss and Italian Alps.

Serving as a testament to the enduring power of time and nature, this ongoing project endeavors to transport viewers on a visual journey through the ages, capturing the indelible imprints left by water and weather on the ancient skin of these majestic mountains.

The lens of the photographer acts as a window to the past, showcasing the gradual erosion and weathering of the landscapes, which have silently witnessed the passage of centuries. The project unfolds as a meditation on the insignificance of the human experience in the grand tapestry of existence. In the face of Mother Nature’s enduring resilience, the fleeting moments of our lives pale in comparison.

Assembled over time, these images serve as a poignant reminder of the transient nature of human existence. The viewer is invited to contemplate the eons that have shaped these landscapes, acknowledging the fleeting nature of our presence against the backdrop of these timeless mountains.

Through the lens, we bear witness to the narrative etched in the rocks and contours, a story that predates and will inevitably outlast our brief sojourn on this Earth.

“The Passing of Centuries” is not merely a collection of photographs but a visual chronicle, an ongoing dialogue with the profound forces that have sculpted our world over millennia. The project invites us to reflect on the impermanence of our individual lives, encouraging a humble acknowledgment of our place within the vast and ancient cosmos.
